Section 2: Reading Comprehension

A- Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, or d:

Once people wore garlic around their necks to defend against disease.

Today, most Americans would mock at the idea of wearing a necklace of garlic pieces to enhance their well-being. However, you might find a number of Americans willing to swallow capsules of minced garlic or other herbal supplements in the name of health

Complementary and alternative medicine, which includes a range of practices outside of conventional medicine such as herbs, homeopathy, massage therapy, yoga, and acupuncture, hold increasing appeal for Americans. In fact, according to one estimate, 42% of Americans have used alternative therapies. In all age groups, the use of unconventional healthcare practices has steadily increased in the last 30 years, and the trend is likely to continue, although people born before 1945 are the least likely to turn to these therapies

Why have so many patients turned to alternative therapies? Many are frustrated by the time constraints of managed care and alienated by conventional medicine's focus on technology. Others feel that a holistic approach to healthcare better reflects their beliefs and values. Others seek therapies that relieve symptoms associated with chronic disease; symptoms that mainstream medicine cannot treat. Some alternative therapies have even crossed the line into mainstream medicine, as scientific investigation has confirmed their safety and efficacy. For example, physicians may currently prescribe acupuncture for pain management or to control the nausea associated with chemotherapy.

. Additionally, many U.S. medical schools teach courses in alternative therapies, and many health insurance companies offer some alternative medicine benefits.

1.The main idea of the passage is.....

- Alternative medicine is now a big business in the United States with more Americans seeking it out than ever before
- Today, it is not unusual for mainstream doctors to incorporate alternative therapies into their practice
- Over the last few decades, alternative medicine has become more popular, accepted, and practiced in the United States
- People are tired of conventional medicine's focus on technology

2.Which of the following is the correct summary for the first paragraph ?

- Historically, garlic necklaces were worn to protect against disease, but some Americans now consume crushed garlic capsules for health benefits
- Capsules of minced garlic are the most favourable treatment that all Americans tend to use for pain management
- It is expected that in the near future garlic necklaces will be used instead of other herbal supplements
- All Americans use Herbal supplements to relieve symptoms associated with chronic disease

3.According to the passage, it can be inferred that.....

- the unconventional healthcare practices are only used by young people
- people rejected the idea of using the unconventional healthcare practices
- people born before 1945 adopted the unconventional healthcare practices
- the unconventional healthcare practices will be widely used in the near future

4. Based on the information given, what kind of person would be least likely to seek out alternative medical treatment ?

- A 45-year-old with chronic neck pain
- A senior citizen who is suffering from nausea due to cancer.
- A teenager suffering from chronic fatigue syndrome
- A 25-year-old athlete with chronic back pain

Safir el Tafawok
We create Bright minds

5. According to the passage, which practice would not be defined as alternative medicine?

- taking herbal supplements
- pain management
- massage therapy
- acupuncture

Safir el Tafawok
We create Bright minds

6. The passage indicates that alternative treatments are increasingly being used by mainstream medical professionals because.....

- they are frustrated by the time constraints of managed care
- more and more Americans are demanding alternative therapies
- few health insurance companies offer some alternative medicine benefits
- scientific studies are becoming available that prove their effectiveness and safety

7. According to the passage, how are alternative medicine and conventional medicine alike

- They both reflect patients' beliefs and values
- They are both used to cure patients
- They both follow similar practices
- They both focus on technology

8. What is the most important fact the writer mentioned about garlic ?

- It controls the nausea associated with cancer
- It could be used to enhance people's appearance
- It could be used to make delicious recipes
- It protects people from getting ill

B- Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, or d:

A robot is a machine. It is considered as a special kind of machine. This is because it can move and follow instructions which come from a computer. Because it is a machine, it does not make mistakes, get tired or complain .

Robots are used to make things, such as, help make cars, clean things and vacuum your house. They can explore dangerous places, such as volcanoes. As well as they helped discover many of a lot of things about the space and plants. Some robots can even recognize words. For example, they can answer telephone calls while you are busy or there is no one at home. Although some robots look like humans, most of them do not. This is because most robots just look like machines Long ago, people imagined robots. Over 2.000 years ago, a famous poet imagined robots. The poet's name was Homer. His robots were made of gold They cleaned and made things. But they were not real. They were imaginary. Nobody was able to make a real robot. The first real robot was made in 1961. It was called Unimate. It was used to help make cars. It looked like a giant arm. In the future, we will have even more robots to do things that we can't do, don't want to do or are too dangerous for us. They also will help us fight fires, wars and sickness. They will help us discover things. Actually we can say they will help make life better.

C- Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, or d:

More and more people are discovering that sharing and talking about their favourite books with others can be rewarding as the act of readding itself. For people who feel that they are too busy to sit down with a book.

A book club helps them schedule time to read. Others have gained self-confidence by practicing in or leading a discussion. And they enjoy the chance to make new friends.

A successful book club should have a group that is small enough so even the quiet people can be heard but also big enough for many different opinions. The best preparation is a mixture of ages, sexes, and backgrounds for more reading discussion.

To make the meeting go smoothly, a leader should be appointed. The leader will usually start the discussion by asking what the author's main idea was. Book club members should never be afraid to offer their opinions, even if they don't like a book. They just need to be prepared to explain why.

1- leadership and self-confidence are

Section 2: Reading Comprehension

A- Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, or d:

Book clubs are a great way to meet new friends or keep in touch with old ones, while keeping up on your reading and participating in lively and intellectually stimulating discussions. If you're interested in starting a book club, you should consider the following options and recommendations.

The first thing you'll need are members. Before recruiting, think carefully about how many people you want to participate and also what the club's focus will be. For example, some book clubs focus exclusively on fiction, others read nonfiction. Some are even more specific, focusing only on a particular genre such as mysteries, science fiction, or romance, others have a more flexible and open focus. All of these possibilities can make for a great club, but it is important to decide on a focus at the outset so the guidelines will be clear to the group and prospective members.

More and more people are discovering that sharing and talking about their favorite books with others can be as rewarding as the act of reading itself. For people who feel that they are too busy to sit down with a book, a book club helps them stay engaged in reading while also fostering social interactions and discussions about the books.

After setting the basic parameters, recruitment can begin. Notify friends and family, advertise in the local newspaper, and hang flyers on bulletin boards in local stores, colleges, libraries, and bookstores. When enough people express interest, schedule a kick-off meeting during which decisions will be made about specific guidelines that will ensure the club runs smoothly.

This meeting will need to establish where the group will meet; how often the group will meet, and on what day of the week and at what time; how long the meetings will be; how books will be chosen and by whom; who will lead the group (if anyone); and whether refreshments will be served and if so, who will supply them. By the end of this meeting, these guidelines should be set, and a book selection and date for the first official meeting should be finalized.

Planning and running a book club is not without challenges, but when a book club is run effectively, the experience can be extremely rewarding for everyone involved.

1- What is the main topic of this passage?

B- Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, or d:

Clarkson is a large town. It has more than fifty thousand people living there. It sits next to a large river, the Clark River. Every day, people take the ferry from North Clarkson to South Clarkson to go to work.

Most people live in North Clarkson. There are many trees and the streets are very broad. When the sun shines and the children run and play in the safe streets, North Clarkson is a wonderful place to live.

South Clarkson has a lot of shops and factories. People don't live there, but they come in the morning to work. There is also a big stadium where the Clarkson Tigers play. On Sundays, many people go to watch their favorite team.

At the weekend, the people from Clarkson enjoy walking along the bank of the Clark River. They also sail small boats on the water and if there is a little wind, they fly kites in the large park.

Every year, Clarkson grows in size because a lot of people come to live there. The government builds more houses and the streets get busier. Maybe in the future, if the town continues to grow, it will become a city!

C- Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, or d:

Carbohydrates, which are sugars, are an essential part of a healthy diet. They provide the main source of energy for the body, and they also function to flavor and sweeten foods. Carbohydrates range from simple sugars like glucose to complex sugars such as amylose and amylopectin. Nutritionists estimate that carbohydrates should make up about one-fourth to one-fifth of a person's diet. This translates to about 75-100 grams of carbohydrates per day.

A diet that is deficient in carbohydrates can have an adverse effect on a person's health. When the body lacks a sufficient amount of carbohydrates it must then use its protein supplies for energy, a process called gluconeogenesis. This, however, results in a lack of necessary protein, and further health difficulties may occur. A lack of carbohydrates can also lead to ketosis, a build-up of ketones in the body that causes fatigue, lethargy, and bad breath.

1- What is the main idea of this passage?

- Carbohydrates are needed for good health.
- Carbohydrates prevent a build-up of proteins.
- Carbohydrate can lead to ketosis.
- Carbohydrates are an expendable part of a good diet.

D- Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, or d:

In each British North American colony, the first printing office was established by the Governor and legislative apparatus. Its chief purpose was to publish materials supporting the government’s official public communications arena. Aside from these specialized ventures, most subsequent print centers commenced printing and publishing with a weekly newspaper. This had become a regular practice by the mid-1760s, earlier in colonies with the longest tradition of printing.

America’s first continuously-published newspaper, the Boston News-Letter published its first issue on April 24, 1704. John Campbell, a bookseller and postmaster of Boston, was its first editor, printing the newspaper on what was then referred to as a half-sheet. It originally appeared on a single page, printed on both sides and issued weekly. In the early years of its publication the News-Letter was filled mostly with news from London journals detailing the intrigues of English politics, and a variety of events concerning the European wars. The rest of the newspaper was filled with items listing ship arrivals, deaths, sermons, political appointments, fires, accidents and the like.

One of the most sensational stories published when the News-Letter was the only newspaper in the colonies was the account of how Blackbeard the pirate was killed in hand-to-hand combat on the deck of a sloop that had engaged his ship in battle. Campbell relinquished his stewardship of the paper in 1722 to Bartholomew Green, its printer. As editor, Green devoted less space to overseas events and more to domestic news.

When Green died after a decade as its editor, the News-Letter was inherited by his son John Draper, also a printer. Draper proved to be a better editor and publisher than his predecessors. He enlarged the paper to four good-sized pages, filling it with news from Boston, other towns throughout the colonies and from abroad.

E- Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, or d:

Firefighters dedicate their lives to the protection of life and property. Sometimes that dedication is in the form of countless hours volunteered over many years, in others it is many selfless years working in the industry. In all cases it risks the ultimate sacrifice of a firefighter's life.

Firefighters are often asked to speak to school and community groups about the importance of fire safety, particularly fire prevention and detection. Because smoke detectors reduce the risk of dying in a fire by half, firefighters often provide audiences with information on how to install these protective devices in their homes.

Specifically, they tell them these things: A smoke detector should be placed on each floor of a home. While sleeping, people are in particular danger of an emergent fire, and there must be a detector outside each sleeping area. A good site for a detector would be a hallway that runs between living spaces and bedrooms.

Because of the dead-air space that might be missed by turbulent hot air bouncing around above a fire, smoke detectors should be installed either on the ceiling at least four inches from the nearest wall, or high on a wall at least four, but no further than twelve, inches from the ceiling.

Detectors should not be mounted near windows, exterior doors, or other places where drafts might direct the smoke away from the unit. Nor should they be placed in kitchens and garages, where cooking and gas fumes are likely to cause bogus alarms.
