

B- Grammer:
Should-Shouldn't
Must-Mustn't

1- Should + inf. Affirmative

Advice / Suggestion

You should study hard. Or

You ought to study hard.

You should see a doctor. Or

You had better see a doctor.

(these are equal grammatically and meaningfully)

Regret / Blame

Should have + P. P

You should have taken your medicine.

If I were you, I would + inf.

If I were you, I would study hard.

2- Shouldn't + inf.

Shouldn't have + inf Negative

You shouldn't skip school.

You ought not to ignore the dress code.

You hadn't better prank your friends.

3- Should be + P. P

Should have been + P. P passive

A doctor should be seen.

2- must + inf. Affirmative

Law article

Motorcycle drivers must wear helmets.

Buildings must meet safety codes.

Businesses must have licenses.

Parents must send children to school.

Obligation from the speaker

I must submit the report on time.

I must pay the fine before it's too late.

I must complete the training.

Strong advice/ invitation

You must see a doctor.

You must stay hydrated.

Don't have to

Doesn't have to

Mustn't + inf. Negative

You mustn't smoke in hospitals.

You must not enter this area without authorization.

You must not use your phone while driving.

(you can also use forbidden, banned, prohibited or not allowed to instead of mustn't)

3- Must be + P. P Passive

3-Have to + inf.

Has to + inf.

Law application

I have to pay my taxes.

Citizens have to obey the law.

I have to report my income.

Necessity

I have to meet the deadline.

I have to report for jury duty.

We have to pass our exams to go to university.

(Past of both is had to + inf.)

Future of both will have to + inf.)

4-Need to + inf. Affirmative

I have no money. I need to get some from the bank.

5-needn't + inf.

I needn't have bought it (here you already bought the thing, but you got scammed or you regretted it)

Don't/doesn't need to + inf Negative.

I didn't have to buy it (here you didn't buy it because you knew you already have it)

Past simple

Formation of Past Simple Tense:

Regular Verbs:

- Affirmative: Verb + "-ed"

Example: I walked to school yesterday.

- Negative: Subject + did not (didn't) + base form of verb

Example: She didn't walk to school yesterday.

- Question: Did + subject + base form of verb?

Example: Did you walk to school yesterday?

Irregular Verbs:

- Irregular verbs have unique past tense forms that do not follow the "-ed" pattern. Examples include "go" (went), "eat" (ate), and "write" (wrote).

Usage of Past Simple Tense:

1. Completed Actions in the Past:

The past simple tense is used to describe actions or events that happened at a specific time in the past and are now finished.

- Example: She finished her homework before dinner.

2. Habits or Routines in the Past:

It can also describe habitual actions or routines that occurred regularly in the past.

- Example: He played soccer every Saturday when he was a child.

3. Past States or Conditions:

It can describe states or conditions that were true in the past.

- Example: She was happy to see her friends.

4. Narrating a Story:

It is commonly used in storytelling or recounting events in the past.

- Example: The cat chased the mouse but couldn't catch

4-Third Conditional:

- Structure: If + past perfect, would have + past participle.
- Usage: The third conditional is used to talk about hypothetical situations in the past that did not happen. It expresses a condition that was not fulfilled and its imagined result.
- Examples:
 - If they had listened to my advice, they would have avoided the mistake.
 - If I had studied medicine, I would have become a doctor.
 - If she had taken the earlier flight, she would have made it to the meeting on time.

ADDITIONAL NOTES ON CONDITIONALS

There are a few aspects of conditionals that should be noted in order to make their use easier and clearer.

- Conditionals can be categorized as real and unreal. You can think of this as meaning possible or impossible. Zero and first conditionals are possible as they deal with things that are generally true or that could be true in the future. Second, third, and mixed conditionals are impossible because they are either hypothetical or concerned with events in the past that we cannot change.

Real Conditionals: Zero and First

Unreal Conditionals: Second, Third, and Mixed

- In the second conditional, the simple past is used in the condition clause. If the be verb is being used, it is typical to use were in more formal contexts. If you're speaking informally though, was more usual.

Formal: If I were you, I would drink more water.

Informal: If I was you, I wouldn't stay out so late.

IF Conditionals

Zero Conditional:

- Structure: If + present simple, present simple.
- Usage: This type of conditional is used to state facts, scientific truths, or general truths that are always true under certain conditions. It expresses a cause-effect relationship where the result is always the same when the condition is fulfilled.
- Examples:
 - If you heat water to 100 degrees Celsius, it boils.
 - If you mix red and blue paint, you get purple.
 - If demand exceeds supply, prices rise.

2- First Conditional:

- Structure: If + present simple, will + base verb.
- Usage: The first conditional is used to talk about real and possible situations in the present or future. It implies a cause-effect relationship where the condition has a realistic chance of happening and the result is likely to follow.
- Examples:
 - If she studies hard, she will pass the exam.
 - If it rains tomorrow, we will stay indoors.

3- Second Conditional:

- Structure: If + past simple, would + base verb.
- Usage: The second conditional is used to talk about hypothetical or unlikely situations in the present or future. It expresses a condition that is not currently true or unlikely to be true, and its hypothetical result.
- Examples:
 - If I were you, I would quit that job.
 - If she spoke fluent French, she would apply for the job in Paris.

Reported speech

Formation of Reported Speech:

When reporting what someone else has said, the structure typically involves:

1. Reporting Verb:

Use verbs like say, tell, mention, explain, etc., to introduce the reported speech.

- Example: She said (that) she was tired.

2. Reporting Clause:

Introduce the reported speech with a noun clause (that-clause) or a question word (wh-word) that reflects the original statement.

- Example: He asked where she was going.

Changes in Verb Tenses:

The verb tense in reported speech often changes according to specific rules:

• Present Simple → Past Simple:

- Direct: "I like pizza."
- Reported: She said (that) she liked pizza.

• Present Continuous → Past Continuous:

- Direct: "She is watching TV."
- Reported: He said (that) she was watching TV.

• Present Perfect → Past Perfect:

- Direct: "I have seen that movie."
- Reported: She said (that) she had seen that movie.

• Past Simple → Past Perfect:

- Direct: "I went to the store."
- Reported: He said (that) he had gone to the store.

2. Cause and Effect in the Past:

It is used to indicate that the action in the past perfect tense happened first and caused another action or state in the simple past.

Example: He had studied hard, so he passed the exam easily.

3. Unreal Past Situations:

It can describe hypothetical or unreal situations in the past, often used with "if" clauses in the third conditional.

- Example: If I had known, I would have come to the party.

4. Past States or Conditions Before a Point in Time:

It can describe states or conditions that existed before a specific point in the past.

- Example: She had never visited Europe before last summer.

Additional Details:

- Time Expressions: Often used with time expressions that establish the order of events, such as before, by the time, already, just, etc.

Example: By the time he arrived, she had already left.

- Narrative Tenses: Used frequently in storytelling or recounting events to clarify the sequence of actions.

Example: When I arrived, they had already started the meeting.

- Modal Verbs: Modal verbs like could, would, should, might can also be used with the past perfect tense to express past possibilities or hypothetical situations.

Example: She could have gone to the party if she had wanted to.

9. Sequential Actions:

When narrating a series of actions in the past, the past simple is used to indicate each action in sequence.

- Example: She opened the door, entered the room, and sat down.

Additional Details:

- Time Expressions: Often used with time expressions that indicate when the action happened, such as yesterday, last week, in 1999, etc.

Example: He traveled to Paris last summer.

- Adverbs of Frequency: Used to describe how often something happened in the past.

Example: She often visited her grandmother.

- Modal Verbs: Modal verbs like could, would, should, might can also be used with the past simple tense to express past possibilities or hypothetical situations.

Example: If I had known, I would have come earlier.

Past perfect

Formation of Past Perfect Tense:

In English, the past perfect tense is formed by using the auxiliary verb "had" followed by the past participle of the main verb.

- Affirmative: Subject + had + past participle

Example: She had finished her homework before dinner.

- Negative: Subject + had not (hadn't) + past participle

Example: They hadn't seen the movie before last night.

- Question: Had + subject + past participle?

Example: Had you finished your work before she arrived?

Usage of Past Perfect Tense:

1. Sequence of Past Actions:

The past perfect tense is used to show that one action happened before another action in the past.

- Example: By the time we arrived, they had already left.

Passive

- Structure of Passive Voice

Subject + form of "to be" + past participle

Examples

Active Voice:

*The chef (subject) cooks (verb) the meal (object).

Passive Voice:

*The meal (subject) is cooked (verb) by the chef (agent).

(In the passive sentence, the meal becomes the focus rather than the chef.)

- When to Use Passive Voice

1. When the doer of the action is unknown or irrelevant:

- Active: Someone stole my car.

- Passive: My car was stolen. (The thief is unknown or not important)

2. When the focus is on the action or the recipient rather than the doer:

- Active: The company will launch a new product next year.

- Passive: A new product will be launched next year by the company. (The focus is on the product launch)

3. In scientific and technical writing:

- Active: Researchers conducted the experiment.

- Passive: The experiment was conducted. (The focus is on the experiment itself)

Additional Details and Considerations:

- Back shifting: In reported speech, verb tenses often shift back (from present to past, past to past perfect, etc.) to reflect that the reported statement occurred in the past relative to the reporting verb.
- Adverbs and Time Expressions: Adverbs and time expressions often change to fit the new reporting context:
 - Direct: "I'll see you later."
 - Reported: She said (that) she would see me later.
- Emotional Changes: Sometimes, adjectives or adverbs describing emotions may change to reflect the speaker's attitude or emotion in the reported speech:
 - Direct: "It's so amazing!"
 - Reported: She exclaimed (that) it was so amazing.

Examples:

1. Direct Speech: "I have never been to Paris."

Reported Speech: She said (that) she had never been to Paris.

2. Direct Speech: "He is studying for his exams."

Reported Speech: They mentioned (that) he was studying for his exams.

3. Direct Speech: "We will go hiking next weekend."

Reported Speech: He told us (that) they would go hiking the following weekend.

Modals (can, will, must, etc.) → Past Modals (could, would, had to, etc.):

- Direct: "I can swim."
- Reported: She said (that) she could swim.

Pronoun Changes:

Pronouns may change to reflect the perspective of the speaker in the reported sentence:

- Direct:

"She is coming."

- Reported:

He said (that) she was coming.

Time and Place Expressions:

Time and place expressions often change to reflect the perspective of the speaker in the reported sentence:

- Direct:

"I will be there tomorrow."

- Reported:

She said (that) she would be there the next day.

Reporting Questions:

When reporting questions, the structure changes slightly:

- Direct Question:

"Where do you live?"

- Indirect Question:

She asked (me) where I lived.

Reporting Commands:

Commands are reported using an infinitive or an infinitive phrase:

- Direct Command:

"Close the door."

- Indirect Command:

He told me to close the door.

• How to Form the Passive Voice

1. Identify the object of the active sentence:
 - Active: The cat (subject) chased (verb) the mouse (object).
2. Make the object the subject of the passive sentence:
 - Passive: The mouse
3. Use the appropriate form of the verb "to be":
 - The mouse was (past tense of "to be" because "chased" is past tense)
4. Add the past participle of the main verb:
 - The mouse was chased.
5. Optionally, include the agent:
 - The mouse was chased by the cat.

• Tenses in Passive Voice

1. Present Simple:

- Active: She writes letters.
- Passive: The letters are written by her.

2. Past Simple:

- Active: They built the bridge.
- Passive: The bridge was built by them.

3. Future Simple:

- Active: We will deliver the package.
- Passive: The package will be delivered by us.

4. Present Continuous:

- Active: They are painting the house.
- Passive: The house is being painted by them.

5. Present Perfect:

- Active: He has completed the project.
- Passive: The project has been completed by him.